

MOTION-S

NEXT STEPS TO GROW

Mondorf-les-Bains, February 17th, 2023: Motion-S, the Luxembourg-based data-driven mobility analytics company, announced today that the board decided to strengthen the company's focus on mobility data analytics solutions. New solutions based on OEM-connected car data will be a centerpiece of the company's offer. Motion-S will continue to expand its business activities related to its white-labeled insurance telematics platform and fleet optimization API that covers safe and sustainable driving and predictive vehicle wear analytics.

To drive the company to the next level, the board of directors further decided on a change in the company's management. As of March 01st, 2023, Andres Petrillo will take over the position of CEO from German Castignani, co-founder of the company. The board thanks German for his outstanding engagement in leading the company successfully during the past three years as a CEO. German will continue to support the company's growth as an advisor to Motion-S and will remain a shareholder of the company.

German underlines: "Motion-S has proven since its foundation as a university spin-off to be an innovative mobility analytics company. I am convinced that Andres, in the position of CEO, will succeed in expanding the company's product and service portfolio, building on the achievements of the past years."

Andres Petrillo was previously responsible for Expansion Programs Europe at Amazon, Luxembourg. Before joining Amazon, he held several executive positions at Aracar Group and Acsys with a solid entrepreneurial focus. Furthermore, he brings in startup experience from Mindbot, an IT technology company developing and delivering products in IoT, software development, and IT consultancy.

Andres states: "I am thrilled to take on this new challenge and responsibility. Motion-S is perfectly positioned to implement its business strategy further and bring our solution portfolio to the next level. I am very proud to take over the lead of a great team. Innovation, out-of-the-box thinking, and excellence can only lead us to great achievements."

Motion-S is on its track - stay tuned not to miss the upcoming revolution in mobility data analytics!
